Col. Tilghman brings in and delivers to Mr. Speaker, the following Ingrossed Address, viz.

To his Excellency Horatio Sharpe, Esq; Governor and Commander in Chief in and over the Province of Maryland:

The humble Address of the House of Delegates.

May it please your Excellency,

We think it our indispensable Duty to make use of this Opportunity of Remonstrating to your Excellency (tho' we cannot do it without much Reluctance) on the Subject of your Message of the 25th March, 1755, in Relation to the Conduct of Mr. Justice Rawlings (whose Character, as we understand the Gentleman is now dead, we are extremely sorry to bring again to public View); which we should have done long before, had not we thought proper that his Majesty's Service, and our own immediate Security against our Foreign Enemies, should almost entirely engage our Attention.

The Representation and Request, which, by our Address of the 15th March, 1755, we made on that Subject, we did hope would have had their due Weight; and were much surprized at your Excellency's intimating to us your Opinion, not only that Mr. Rawlings
