

to have seen the said Lockett deliver any Tobacco Notes. This Deponent further saith, that upon the said Addison's ordering the aforesaid Lowe to execute the said Samuel Lockett, he, the said Lowe, laying his Hand on the Person of the said Lockett, said, "I execute you in his Lordship's Name." And further this Deponent saith not.

L. H. J.
Liber No. 54
Nov. 10

John Brown, Brazier

Sworn the Day and Year first above written, before R Ghiselin

John Boon Lockett of Prince George's County, being a Person of full Age, and duly sworn on the holy Evangelists of Almighty God, this Ninth Day of November 1770, deposes and saith, that at last Prince George's County Court, John Addison, Esq^r Sheriff of that County, called this Deponent's Father, Samuel Lockett, jun.^r aside, and told him that he had Orders to execute him for the fees which he had refused; and after further Conversation, in which the said Samuel Lockett still denied and refused to pay the fees, the said Addison ordered Michael Lowe, his Deputy, and present, to execute him; on which the said Lowe pulled off his Hat, and laid his Hand on the said Samuel Lockett's Breast, but this Deponent being at a Distance, does not know what the said Lowe said, or whether he said any Thing. This Deponent afterwards drew near to the said Parties, and saw the said Samuel Lockett pay thirty Pounds of Tobacco to the said Lowe, who, after figuring on a Piece of Paper, said to the said Samuel Lockett, you may as well pay it, there's not above two hundred and fifty due, or thereaway. The said Samuel Lockett afterwards said, here's a Crop Note which I give as Security till I settle the Affair, which Lowe received, and said to the said Addison, there's a Note M.^r Lockett gives as Security till he settles it, at the same Time delivering the Crop Note to the said Addison, which M.^r Addison received, saying its very well. This Deponent further saith, that very soon afterwards, and as this Deponent thinks, within an Hour, the said Samuel Lockett went into the Court House, where the aforesaid Addison then was, and after touching him by the Sleeve, the said Addison looked round, and again looked from the said Sam^l Lockett, who held a Tobacco Note open before his Face; but the said Addison, as if unwilling to look on the same Note, looked over it towards the Lawyers who were then pleading in Court—This Deponent further saith, that he heard the said Samuel Lockett ask the said Lowe why he did not execute his Horse, to which the said Lowe answered, "No damn you I've got your Body and that's better." And further this Deponent saith not.

p. 158

John B. Lockett

Sworn to the Day and Year first before written, before R Ghiselin

Ordered, That the Serjeant at Arms attending this House, do forthwith take into his Custody, the Body of John Addison, Sheriff