

Liber J J the prisoners to give Evidence, to the Jury what they could Say
 P. 483 therein who having Delivered the same.

The Court called to the prisoners to Speake for themselves which they having severally done The Jury went from the barre to consult upon their verdict

The Jury being agreed Retorne into Court again, and being called by their names respectively answeere thereunto, and the Clerke demanding if they were agreed of their verdict, They answeere yea. Then the Clerke demanded who should Speake for them, and they make answeere their foreman.

The Prisoners being then called to the barre

The Clarke called to James Sall to hold up his hand, and spoke to the Juro<sup>rs</sup> to looke upon the prisoner.

And then Demanded of the Juro<sup>rs</sup> if James Sall were guilty of the petty Treason whereof he stands indicted or not Guilty.

The foreman answered (Guilty.)

Then the Clarke Demanded of the Juro<sup>rs</sup> if John the Negro (whom he called to, to hold up his hand) were guilty of the petty Treason whereof he stands Indicted or not Guilty.

The foreman answered (Guilty.)

Then the Clerke called to Robert Speare to hold up his hand And then Demanded of the Juro<sup>rs</sup> if the said Robert Speare was guilty of the petty Treason whereof he stands indicted or not Guilty.

The foreman answered Guilty

Then the Clarke Demanded what Goods & Chattells lands and Tenem<sup>ts</sup> they had at the time of the petty Treason Comitted or at any time since to their Knowledge who Reply (none).

Then the Court Comanded the said John the Negro James Sall & Robert Speare to be sett from the barre, and Tony the Negro to be sett to the barre. and the Court having weighed the Evidence that had beene against the aforesaid convicted pson, and the said Tony the Negro standing indicted for the same crime. (though the said Tony could Speake no English) yet put him upon his Tryall upon the same Jury. who being Sworne as aforesaid, and hearing what Evidence could be alledged against him went into the next Roome to Consider of their verdict.

The Juro<sup>rs</sup> retorning into the Court and being agreed upon their verdict and being called by their names Respectively answeere thereunto and the Clerke Demanding of them if they were agreed of their verdict they answered yea, Then the Clerke demanded who should Speake for them, and they answering their foreman.

Tony the Negro being called to the barre & holding up his hand The Clerke Demanded of the Juro<sup>rs</sup> aforesaid if Tony the Negro were guilty of the petty Treason whereof he stands indicted or not guilty.

The foreman answered (not Guilty)