Ordered that the western shore Treasurer pay to Jesse Lock Two hundred and fifty five pounds and one penny due him per Account passed by the Auditor General.

In Council December 24 1791

John Campario of Baltimore town by his Petition sets forth, that he for many years past has kept a tavern in Baltimore, that he has uniformly maintained the Character of an industrious inoffensive Citizen and that he has always conducted his tavern with every attention to regularity and order, that at the Court of Oyer and terminer for Baltimore County he was indicted and convicted of having sold Spiritous liquors on a Sunday and was fined by the said Court for the said Offence. 2000 tn., that he [p. 20] never was charged before with any irregularity as a tavern keeper, and that he did not know that he violated any Law of this State by selling liquors on Sunday. It appears from a Certificate of the Clerk of the said Court that it was at November term 1790 that the said fine was laid. Four of the Justices of the said Court having recommended the Petitioner to the Clemency of the Board, It is ordered that one thousand pounds of Tobacco, part of the said fine of two thousand pounds of Tobacco be remitted.
