Nehemiah Covington aged forty or thereabouts

Sworne saith That I was at the house of John Marcham in May last and there came in the evening m^r Phillip Rison and after some discourse he had demanded satisfaction according to a^d of C^o so he pull'd out two deare skins from under the bed; m^r Rison here is two deare skins; he replied here is not enough I want another And he told him he could gett out an execution but he was ready to put him to see more Charge John Marcham told m^r Rison he would pay the rest to John Babin the which Babin accepted of & upon that m^r Rison gave Marcham discharge and further saith not // Nehemiah Covington // John Covington saith
