

the making of challenges at general elections. No challenge shall be determined by the judge of the primary election until the ballot of the voter has been handed to and received by the judge in charge of the ballot box, and if such ballot shall be repeated, the word 'repeated' shall be written upon the same with the name and address given by the person offering to vote the same, and the said ballot so repeated shall be delivered to the inspector of the primary election, and by him returned to the Board of Supervisors of Elections.

"164. When a voter presents himself to vote at a primary election he shall give his name and address, and if his name shall be found upon the poll list of said primary election by the primary election inspector, his name shall be written on each of the clerk's books in its proper consecutive order, and then he shall hand his ballot to the judge in charge of the ballot box, and if his vote shall be challenged and repeated, the clerks of the said primary election shall draw a line through the name of such voter on their own poll list, and shall write after such name the word "repeated" precisely as if the poll book was one kept for a general election.

"165. When the hour arrives for closing the polls, the watchers shall be first allowed to enter the room before the ballot box is opened, the clerks shall announce in a loud voice the number of names appearing to have voted for on their poll books. The ballot box shall then be opened and the ballots counted in the manner directed at a general election, and the result proclaimed in the same manner as is prescribed by section 67 of this Article, and police returns shall be made out and returned in the manner prescribed by said section 67.

The judges shall make out duplicate returns of said primary election in the manner set forth in section 68 of this Article, and when such duplicate returns have been made out and signed, they shall be sealed up in separate envelopes and indorsed in the manner provided in section 68, except that in addition to the endorsement across the flap of said envelope of the names of the judges and clerks of said primary elections there shall be also upon said flap of said envelope the signature of the inspector of said primary election, and one of such envelopes so sealed up shall be addressed to the Board of Supervisors
