

1 We provided for advisory council to advise on 2 these areas. I would like to summarize by comparing the 3 constitution of a free government with those in foreign 4 countries, more totalitarian in concept. Such governments
5 have a constitution that provides lofty concepts of legis-
6 lative, executive and judicial freedom often coupled with 7 the "right to vote" and high sounding dedication to educa-
8 tion, but I submit the real difference is the actual aca-
9 demic freedom and the nonpartisan political policies of its 10 schools that differentiate it from the pseudo systems
11 which they seek to espouse.

12 We have enforcements of our majority report
13 from the PTA's of the State, the superintendents of the 14 local school boards, the University of Maryland, the state
15 colleges, the community colleges and many other groups.

16 I would like to submit to you that education is 17 not a sacred cow, but rather a sacred trust to be pre-18 served for future generations. It is the obligation to 19 pass on unfettered knowledge to succeeding generations and 20 to stimulate new ideas and creativity. The majority
21 position can best be summarized by saying that it advocates
