

1 meetings and any suggestions that you have, pass along
2 through your administrative assistant or chairman so
3 that we can work out a method of handling that will make 4 it of the highest utility.

5 Again, let me urge you to safeguard the trans-
6 cripts. It will not be possible to reproduce, reasonably
7 possible to reproduce once we have exhausted whatever
8 supply is originally reproduced. The time taken in re-9 producing the transcripts is considerable, and if we get 10 to a point of trying to sort of interrupt the production 11 line and go back to it, we might slow down the work of 12 the Convention; so please regard those as very, very 13 important documents, much more so than your proposals.
14 It will be much easier for us to furnish you with addi-
15 tional copies of proposals. The transcripts are a very,
16 very valuable document.

17 Now, we are still, as everyone is fully aware 18 of, considerably disorganized. We haven't been able to 19 iron out all the problems. We are woefully short of 20 sufficient, really competent secretarial help and type-
21 writers. The Staff hasn't become fully acclimated on
