

1 DELEGATE H. TAYLOR: Mr. President, this is
2 one of those oversights that might result in endless
3 trouble for me, but I forgot that my wife is in the rear
4 balcony. (Laughter)

5 And she is really the most important of all
6 the women in my life. (Applause)

7 THE PRESIDENT: Delegate Singer.

8 DELEGATE SINGER: Mr. President, I would like
9 to announce that the words of Ira Wagonheim, the Poet
10 Laureate of the Convention, are now in published form and 11 are available in the clerk's office if anyone is interested 12 in retaining for posterity this notable addition to the 13 convention proceedings.

14 On a personal note, I would ask the Convention
15 to join with me in giving a warm welcome to my mother, 16 who is sitting in the balcony above the rostrum, Mrs.
17 Anna Singer. (Applause)

18 THE PRESIDENT: Delegate Clagett.

19 DELEGATE CLAGETT: I would like to introduce 20 to this assembly and have them recognize my daughter,
21 Elizabeth Eastman Clagett. Her father has spent only
