

1 written by a man who moved to Nebraska, not a Nebraskan
2 who grew up in the Norris tradition, if you please, a study,
3 the most recent study of unicameral system in Nebraska
4 says this: "In Nebraska, the unicameral system enjoys over-
5 whelming support from the public, from the leading newspapers
6 from the interest groups and from the State's political 7 leaders."

8 This would seem to me to be an indication that in 9 Nebraska the general population has pretty well accepted 10 the idea that what they have there is better than what they 11 had before.

12 What they have there now may not be better than 13 what we have here. That is not the point. The point is that 14 the unicameral system in Nebrasks produced a better legis-
15 lature than they had had before. I am perfectly willing 16 to live by experience. My experience does not indicate 17 that we should continue with the bicameral legislature.

18 In the third place, I would like to make allusion
19 to this teacup theory. It is always brought up, Washington
20 and Jefferson were great men, but they lived in the Eighteenth 21 Century. We no longer pour the tea in the saucer. At least,
