

1 state governments to the people have been rejected.
2 It behooves us, I think, to keep this in mind and strain
3 every nerve to produce a constitution that the people will 4 accept.

5 The Chair recognizes Delegate Hutchinson.

6 DELEGATE HUTCHINSON: Mr. President, I would 7 like to take this opportunity to announce in the galleries
8 are present Mr. Preston A. Hutchinson, who happens to be 9 a delegate to the General Assembly, and his wife, Mrs.
10 Evelyn Hutchinson, who both happen to be my mother and 11 father, and who also happen to be the primary reason why
12 I am sitting here today. (Applause.)

13 THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes Delegate
14 Powers.

15 DELEGATE POWERS: Mr. President, during the recess
16 for lunch, there was opportunity to consider the consequences
17 of our deviation from the announced practice and recessing
18 substantially in advance of the time. It has been concluded 19 by the Committee on Calendar and Agenda that it would 20 be much less disruptive to a much smaller number for us to 21 adhere as closely as possible to the announced times for
