3 This Minority Report is the result in part
4 I think of having 11 lawyers and 3 Ph.D.'s on a single 5 Committee. It is an attempt to resolve a series of very 6 divergent points of view with respect to the size of the 7 General Assembly.

8 Boiling those points of view down, the ques-
9 tions which are raised are these: Shall we discard our 10 traditional county representation completely and move
11 into a totally new system, or shall we cling to what we 12 have had and let the legislature grow without hindrance,
13 and let the future take care of itself?

14 There is a middle ground which this Minority
15 Report proposes, which it sought.

16 Yesterday, in the invocation, the minister re-
17 ferred to the difference between that which ought to be 18 and that which can be. This is the problem we are facing 19 now.

20 Politics, and that is what we are engaging in 21 in the best sense of the term, has been defined as the
