

1 answer inquiries as to every phase of the operations of the 2 Convention. They are to be of service and will, upon the 3 request of any representative of the news media or any 4 member of the public, obtain information necessary to answer
5 any reasonable inquiry. It will be our purpose to have complete
6 and current coordination between each committee and the infor-
7 mation service through the medium of the administrative as-8 sistants so that the information service will be aware of 9 what is happening in every committee at all times.

10 It should be noted at this point that the State
11 Department of Education has also worked out for the second-12 ary schools of the State a course of study on the need for 13 constitutional revision in Maryland, and the activities of 14 this Convention will become an important part of the 15 teaching in those schools of civics, history and of courses
16 in the problems of democracy. The Constitutional Conven-
17 tion Commission and your officers have cooperated with the 18 State Department of Education in this project, and the 19 State Superintendent of Schools a few days ago issued an 20 elaborate resource guide on the Maryland Constitutional
21 Convention comprising approximately 115 pages and designed
