

1 somewhat chaotic. There are jurisdictions, so our com-
2 mittee was told, where the problem today in not being 3 able to keep up with the case load is not lack of manpower
4 but lack of facilities. If the political subdivision is 5 financially unable or is for some reason unwilling to 6 provide necessary facilities to allow proper administra-
7 tion of justice, then the legislature in its wisdom in 8 providing additional judges of course cannot do the full
9 job and therefore it seems imperative that the state
10 recognize as its full and complete financial responsi-
11 bility the matter of the proper administration of justice
12 in this state.

13 Also, I should say that the committee had before
14 it several delegate proposals suggesting specialty
15 courts, or courts other than those created in the four-tier
16 system recommended by the committee.

17 We would like to assure you that we are not un-
18 sympathetic with the need for specialty courts perhaps 19 at some jurisdiction at the moment and perhaps to a greater 20 extent in the foreseeable future. We feel, however, that 21 the allowance for functional division should be entirely
