

1 than judicial?

2 DELEGATE MUDD: You mean the court operated
3 out of the Department of Assessments and Taxation?

4 DELEGATE DUKES: The court is called a tax
5 court, yes, sir.

6 DELEGATE MUDD: My understanding is it is 7 not a court in our definition of it.

8 THE CHAIRMAN: Delegate Dukes.

9 DELEGATE DUKES: Am I not correct that in 10 decisions -- perhaps the Chair can assist on this --
11 decisions which dealt with quasi-judicial functions
12 dealt for the most part with administrative agencies, where 13 they were clearly quasi-non-judicial functions, for the most 14 part regulatory, thinking of Federal Power Commission,
15 Federal Communications, Security & Exchange Commission,
16 Workmens Compensation Board, are these not different 17 from courts like tax court, or the probate court created by 18 the legislature, which are composed of former judges?

19 THE CHAIRMAN: If your question was directed
20 to the Chair I would answer the distinction is not so much 21 the one that you have just indicated, but rather the
