3 and Delegate Henderson and others.

4 I wish to draw a very simple parallel,
5 and ask that this be considered carefully, particularly 6 by those who are not lawyers, but who have expressed 7 concern about the concentration of the judicial power in 8 the judiciary, free of legislative tampering by use of the 9 word "exclusively."

10 Assume for the moment that your business is an 11 insurance business, and it is an incorporated business, with 12 the officers and usual Board of Directors.

13 Is it not logical, and is it not the best method
14 of procedure, to permit those officers or that Board 15 of Directors to determine the necessity of an additional 16 assistant in the activity of that business?

17 For example, you want to expand and take on 18 another line of insurance, assuming for the moment 19 that it is home owners liability or fire or some other 20 specialized type of insurance activity.

21 Is it not the best way of approach that when the need for that expansion is there, that the officers and the Board of Directors determine that this
