

1 The Chair recognizes Delegate Storm.

2 DELEGATE STORM: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me
3 that this is an important amendment. I had always 4 interpreted the power to veto as not a duty. I didn't think
5 the Governor had the duty to veto but the power to do it,
6 and when this matter was brought up in conversation with the 7 Chairman, I was kind of surprised that veto was one of the 8 authorities which was meant under duties, under the word
9 "duty" in 4.03. Therefore, I thought this amendment was 10 much more restrictive than the one that I offered yesterday.
11 I think this is important, because Delegate Chabot uses the 12 word, "authority", to show that whatever the Chairman meant,
13 whether it was the duty or the power, the authority to veto
14 should not be delegated, and I think this is important,
15 because otherwise I believe it is mainly duties and not 16 powers that should be delegated.

17 THE CHAIRMAN: Does any Delegate desire to speak
18 in opposition?

19 Delegate Sickles.

20 DELEGATE SICKLES: Mr. Chairman, I would like to 21 ask a question. I don't know when I come in.
