

1 otherwise.

2 I think it is a mistake for us to be so detailed 3 in our requirements of record keeping, even in committee,
4 because sometimes although our committee has been operated
5 with great efficiency and accuracy, it has been very con-
6 fusing, and I wouldn't swear that each of the votes that we 7 have taken were absolutely correct -- I mean correctly
8 recorded; so I really think we are treading on dangerous
9 ground here, and I do suggest that this is a salutary
10 amendment.

11 THE CHAIRMAN: The Chair is going to interrupt 12 the debate at this time and follow the unusual course of 13 suggesting a recess in the middle of debate. Part of the 14 reason, but only part of it, is that this particular section 15 is so very important, the proper interpretation, that the 16 statements made in the course of debate will have a bearing
17 on that, and I would like the debate not to be hurried,
18 and to have every opportunity for the committee chairman to 19 state quite clearly what the intent of the committee is.
20 For that reason, the Chair recognizes Delegate Powers.
