

in italics, but when we put it in caps it is hard to notice and I missed it going back.

Under the general heading is included districts and redistricting for both the General Assembly and for Congress.

I think I have now covered each of the items up to page 12, where again, we inserted in line No. 1, "Members of General Assembly," under which we will have qualifications, elections, terms, vacancies, and so on. There is a change in the numbering, but the numbering is merely changed because we had moved up the sections on congressional redistricting.

In line 14 under 3.03, we have inserted "election for members of", since it is the members who elect, not the General Assembly, except in a collective sense.

In section 3.10, line 29, we changed the word "from" to "in", of the district in which he seeks election.

In section 3.17 under Vacancies, line 42, the "The" has been changed to "An appointee".

In section 13, we find the goof which we made and this is the one which I was referring to where we had everybody there, including advice from the substantive committee. The change which we made in line 14 saying, "No person elected or appointed to", changing that to "No member" is obviously a substantive change and an error on my part, again called to my attention first at least by Delegate Marvin Smith.

The meaning of "No person elected to or appointed to" includes anybody who has been elected or qualified. Once he had been elected or qualified, then he was no longer eligible. The way we stated it was wrong because it would suggest that he had to be a member before he would be unable to be appointed to any other office which had been created while his term was going on. What I would like to suggest is that line 14 reverts to the way it had originally been reported to the Committee of the Whole by the Committee on the Legislative Branch and thus correcting the error which we in the Committee on Style inadvertently allowed to creep in or put in I should say.

THE PRESIDENT: Is this to the entire section 3.13?

DELEGATE PENNIMAN: No. The only thing involved is line 14.

I see Delegate Gallagher standing. He may have a question about something else.

THE PRESIDENT: For what purpose does Delegate Gallagher rise?

DELEGATE GALLAGHER: Mr. President, I think if we kept the original language throughout perhaps with the exception of line 20 where such has been changed to that, we might more possibly be closer to the original intention of the Committee so that it would read "No person elected or appointed to the General Assembly shall during the term of office for which he was elected or appointed be appointed to any office which shall have been created or for which the compensation has been increased by the General Assembly during that term."

I could read it the other way and see whether or not it does. You are changing only the first line. If we read it that way it would be "No person elected or appointed to the General Assembly shall be appointed during the term of office for which he was elected or appointed to any office which has been created or for which the compensation has been increased by the General Assembly during that time."

As I read it the second time, I would be satisfied to have line 14 revert to its prior language. I do not know what device the Chair would require of me in the way of a motion.

THE PRESIDENT: It does not need a motion.

The Committee on Style requests unanimous consent to modify its recommendations so as to restore line 14 on page 13 to the form in which it was before any change had been made, so is there any objection?

The Chair hears no objection. The modification is made, so line 14, page 13, section 3.13, will therefore read "No person elected or appointed to".

You may proceed.

DELEGATE PENNIMAN: And the titles of 3.12, 3.13, and 3.14, we reduced the length of them since they are all under the heading of General Assembly. There was no need to refer to the legislators each time because it is obvious.

Under the heading of General Assembly, in 3.15, aside from removing the word "Legislative", in line 35, this is another one where we reverted to the word "provide". We changed in line 36, we changed "organization session" to "organizational session", at the suggestion of Vice-President James and it was quite correct.

In lines 43 and again in line 46 we added the word "regular session" and this was at
