

tended to be offered. Are there any to any part of the constitution or either of the schedules?

(There was no response.)

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair hears no amendments.

We will proceed to vote in the manner indicated earlier.

Before taking any vote, the Chair will have a quorum call to establish the number of delegates present and requests that every delegate answer the quorum call. We will then proceed to a final vote, article by article. Any calls for division must be made before the vote and the Chair will rule on whether or not the division is proper. That means that if you have a question or desire division as to any particular article, you shall ask for it when the article is the main question before you and before it is put to a vote.

The Chair will delay a little longer than usual in asking for whether any delegate desires to change his vote and whether every delegate has voted, simply to make sure that you have not inadvertently voted the wrong way. Please, therefore, when you have voted, look at the board to make sure you have voted your intentions correctly.

Under the rules, there will not be an opportunity to explain votes after the voting has begun or after the voting has concluded. If, therefore, you desire to explain your vote, you must do so before the article is put to a vote and in the debate period.

The Clerk will ring the quorum bell once more.

The Chair calls for a quorum.

Apparently every delegate in the chamber has answered quorum call. The Clerk will record the quorum call.

There are 128 delegates present. The Chair is advised that one of the delegates informed of the fact of a quorum is not here and is on his way.

Delegate Smith.

DELEGATE J. H. SMITH: Mr. Chairman, a point of personal privilege.

THE PRESIDENT: State the privilege.

DELEGATE J. H. SMITH: We have in the gallery with us the parents of Janet Shedd and I would like the Convention to give them the usual warm welcome, please.

(Applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair is advised that the delegate in question is not here.

The first question will arise on the preamble. The question arises on the preamble, on the adoption of the preamble, on third and final reading.

Is there any discussion?

Are you ready for the question?

(Call for the question.)

The question arises on the adoption on third and final reading of the preamble. A vote Aye is a vote in favor of the adoption of the preamble; a vote No is a vote against.

Cast your votes.

Has every delegate voted?

Does any delegate desire to change his vote?

The Clerk will record the vote.

There being 123 votes in the affirmative and 3 in the negative, the motion is carried. The preamble is adopted on third and final reading.

The question now arises on the adoption of Article 1, on third and final reading.

Is there any discussion?

Are you ready for the question?

(Call for the question.)

The question arises on the adoption on third and final reading of Article 1. A vote Aye is a vote in favor of the adoption of the Article; a vote No is a vote against.

Cast your vote.

Has every delegate voted?

Does any delegate desire to change his vote?

The Clerk will record the vote.

There being 124 votes in the affirmative and 2 in the negative; the motion is carried. Article 1 is adopted on third and final reading.

The question now arises on the adoption on third and final reading of Article 2.

Is there any discussion?

Are you ready for the question?

(Call for the question.)
