following the conclusion of the session in the basement of the Shaw House, more accurately described as the house nearest the bar of the Treadway Inn, but we will consider at that time three things: the pending resolution to create a committee on public information, a report from our sub-committee on the manner of filling vacancies, and finally, a report from the sub-committee on the question of absences from attendance at the Convention.

THE PRESIDENT: Delegate Boyer?

DELEGATE BOYER: Mr. President, the Committee on General Provisions will meet immediately after the session until possibly 6:30 p.m. and will hear testimony from our witnesses who are plentiful. We will adjourn for dinner and come back to work until some indefinite time this evening. I am just tentatively giving the schedule so we can conduct ourselves accordingly. We will again meet tomorrow morning at ten o'clock and continue hearing deliberations and receiving contributions from the many witnesses we have on this phase of education "constitutional recognition."

Thank you, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: Any other announcements by committee chairmen? If not, are there any delegates present who were not present at roll call who desire to record their presence? Delegate Grumbacher?

DELEGATE GRUMBACHER: I wish to be recorded as present, though tardy.

THE PRESIDENT: Delegate Stern?

DELEGATE STERN: I wish to be recorded as present.

THE PRESIDENT: Are there any other delegates absent at roll call who desire to record their presence?

DELEGATE VECERA: Mr. President, I would like to make a motion at this time that we form an entertainment committee for the purpose of having at least one social affair at this great convention.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there a second to Delegate Vecera's motion?

(The motion was duly seconded.)

Is there any discussion? Are you ready for the question? The question arises on the motion that there be formed an entertainment committee to make arrangements for at least one social affair during this convention. All those in favor, signify by saying Aye. Contrary, No. The Ayes have it. It is so ordered.

The Chair recognizes Delegate Powers.

DELEGATE POWERS: Mr. President, I move we adjourn until tomorrow, Tuesday, September 19, at 2:00 P.M.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment. My attention has been called to the fact that someone else was trying to get the attention of the Chair.

DELEGATE L. TAYLOR: Mr. President—

THE PRESIDENT: Delegate Taylor.

DELEGATE L. TAYLOR: Mr. President, the Personal Rights Committee was concerned about finding the fifty constitutions of other states, and one of our members asked about forty constitutions. I wonder if the Convention has available the constitutions of the other states, or if they are available?

THE PRESIDENT: Delegate Taylor, I do not think that the Commission has the complete text of the constitution of every state. However, it has a number of copies of a publication called the Index to the State Constitutions, which have been placed in the library of the Convention. This is an index digest of the provisions of all state Constitutions arranged by subject matter, and I think you will find in it just about the answer to every question you would have as to the provisions of state Constitutions. It is published annually and is therefore current.

Delegate Winslow?

DELEGATE WINSLOW: Mr. President, copies of the constitutions of all fifty states, down through and including Michigan in 1964, are available in the law library.

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you, Delegate Winslow.

Does anyone else desire to be recognized? If not, Delegate Powers, will you make your motion again please?

DELEGATE POWERS: I repeat the motion that we adjourn until tomorrow, Tuesday, September 19, 1967, 2:00 P.M.

THE PRESIDENT: All in favor, signify by saying Aye; contrary, No. The Ayes have it. It is so ordered.

(Whereupon, at 4:57 P.M., the Convention was adjourned to reconvene at 2:00 P.M. on Tuesday, September 19, 1967.)
