

6th. Did you ascertain and register the name of every white male resident in or temporarily absent from your district preparatory to administering the oath required by law?

A. I cannot say we did preparatory, we did it when at our leisure, when not pressed with business.

7th. Did you enter on the seventh column the cause or reason for the disqualification of all the persons whom you rejected as qualified voters?

A. Did not, because some came up and refused to take the oath, and I think we did not enter those; simply entered those not sworn, on the second column.

8th. Were those who refused to take oath, all whom you did not so enter?

A. I am not positive, but I think they were, except those who did not apply at all.

9th. Did you enter in the eighth column the names of the witnesses by whom the disqualifying acts were proven, in all cases?

A. When there were witnesses we did. We did not need witnesses in all cases.

10th. Did not the law require the entry of the witnesses' name or names in said column in lieu of the name of the person applying?

A. I believe it did, when there were witnesses.

11th. For what causes did you and your colleagues disqualify any person or persons?

A. For disloyalty; one for non compos mentis.

12th. What did you and your colleagues understand by disloyalty

A. Opposition to the lawful authority of the Government.

13th. What do you mean by opposition to the lawful authority?

A. To coincide with and justify the Rebellion.

14th. What causes of disqualification are specified in the third, fourth and fifth sections of the first article of the Constitution, of which evidence by the Act of Registration was to be produced before you?

A. I don't think I can state the different sections of the Constitution, but disloyalty was one of the disqualifying acts.

15th. What acts did you and your colleagues decide and consider as indicating opposition to the lawful authority of the Government?
