WICOMICO COUNTY.*Senator Elihu E. Jackson.

Elihu E. Jackson is fifty-eight years of age. He is the eldest of seven children of the late Hugh Jackson, of Salisbury, and was born on his father's farm, in the northern part of Somerset county, now Wicomico county, on November 3d, 1837. His father was a hardworking and fairly prosperous farmer, and a prominent mover in county affairs, having been at one time judge of the Orphans' Court. Elihu E. Jackson was brought up with his four brothers and two sisters on the farm, the entire family doing their share of the customary labor. He received his education at the country school, and it was supplemented later by private study during such time as he could spare from a life of extraordinary activity. In 1859, at the age of twenty-two years, he went to Delmar, then the terminal of the Delaware Railroad, and started in the general merchandising business, his sole capital being $500 which he had earned by toil and saved by practice of the strictest economy. In 1863, the railroad having been completed to Salisbury, Maryland, Mr. Jackson removed to that place and formed a partnership with his father and his brother, W. H. Jackson, under the style of E. E. Jackson & Co. Here they started a grocery and dry goods store on a larger scale, adding the shipping of lumber and grain to the business, and commencing a
