Baltimore County—D. HOPPER EMORY.

D. Hopper Emory was born in Centreville, Queen Anne's county, in 1841. He is a son of the late Judge D. C. H. Emory. Shortly after his birth the family removed to Baltimore, and Mr. Emory has lived in the city and in the county ever since. He was educated in the public schools, at Newton Academy and at the Rugby Institute at Mount Washington, and was also a private pupil of Dr. Edwin Arnold. He studied law with his father, Judge Emory, and was admitted to practice about twenty-five years ago in the Superior Court. He was for about fifteen years commissioner of chancery in the Baltimore County Court. He has been frequently upon the Republican ticket in the county, however, for judge, for State's attorney and other offices—his misfortune being that Baltimore county was a democratic stronghold. He was on committee on education, on committee on engrossed bills, on committee on library, on committee on public buildings in Annapolis, on committee on Article 3, section 24, of the Constitution, on committee on re-valuation and assessment of the last Senate.
