

4th. Baltimore county bounty bonds for fifty-eight ($58,000) dollars.

5th. Baltimore county owns about one hundred and seventy (170) acres of land adjoining the west end of Baltimore, which is the old joint property of the county and city of Baltimore, and the building now occupied by the county paupers, a portion of this property lying nearest to the city has been laid off into squares and streets, which lots the County Commissioners have the power to lease, which is that portion which the county got from the city by partition. That portion on which the buildings are erected, and two other pieces, about twenty-five (25) acres, the County Commissioners by law can dispose of, provided they do not sell at less than cost.

5th. Baltimore county holds Baltimore city five per cent. bonds for sixty-eight thousand five hundred ($68,500) dollars, which is held by the Savings Bank of Baltimore as security for the debt due by the county to said Bank.

Respectfully,

JOSHUA F. COCKEY,
President Board of County Commissioners of Baltimore county.
