

not the second son would have inherited the land; in like manner shall the grand child, or great grand child (either male or female) of the elder son, succeed before the younger son.

But if a man has only three daughters, C. D. and E, and C. dies, leaving two sons, D. dies, leaving two daughters, and E also dying leaves a daughter, and a son, which son is younger than his sifter, here, when the grand father dies, the eldest son of C. shall succeed to one third, in exclusion of the younger, the two daughters of D. to another third part in partnership, and the son of E. to the remaining third part, in exclusion of his elder sifter.
