

of a causeway, but it must in every instance be covered with earth, and drains must also be cut with the plough, if practicable, of sufficient depth to preserve the road from being injured by the absorption of water collecting on the sides; he shall examine each break-water of his district after every rain calculated to do injury thereto, to ascertain if it answers the purpose for which it was constructed, and whenever he finds any defective, either from error in construction or from use, he shall forthwith correct or repair the same, and in every instance of neglect so to do, the injury resulting to the road shall be repaired at his cost; and at any time he is informed, or otherwise ascertains, that a break-water has yielded, so that it does not answer its purpose, he shall forthwith repair it, subject to the same penalty for neglect.

Their allowance.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That the supervisors appointed under this act shall be entitled to receive at the rate of two dollars for each day they are employed in the execution of the duties hereby prescribed.

Not to work with less than six hands.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That no supervisor shall at any time proceed to work and labour on the public roads of his district without six able-bodied hands, unless it be for the purpose of removing fallen trees, or other obstructions, or for repairing or correcting defects which may take place in a break-water, under the pain of forfeiting his own wages for the time he shall work without six hands as aforesaid, which shall be deducted from his allowance by the levy court.

Inspectors to report to grand jury.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every inspector of public roads, who shall have endorsed on a supervisor's account that the roads are not in good repair, and that the money has not been properly expended, to present the fact to the grand jury, and if the grand jury shall find a bill against the said supervisor, he shall be fined, at the discretion of the court, not less than five nor more than thirty dollars.

Levy court to meet annually.

SEC. 8. And be it enacted, That the levy court of Montgomery county shall meet annually on the second Monday in October to settle the accounts of supervisors.

If they should not meet on day appointed, clerk shall name a day.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, That if the levy court shall not meet on the second Monday in October in any year, as is hereby directed, that the clerk of Montgomery county shall appoint a day, within twenty days of the second Monday of October, for their meeting, to settle the accounts of the supervisors, and give notice thereof by publication in any newspaper published in said county.

Supervisors to be furnished with a list of roads.

SEC. 11. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the levy court to furnish each supervisor with a list of the public roads of his district, designating to which district a road shall belong which is a dividing line between districts.