

	Page.
All accounts in the public offices, and proceedings in the courts, to be kept accordingly—1812, ch. 135, sec. 2, . . . . .	611
Judgments, decrees and fines, &c. to be rendered therein, but not vitiated if rendered as before—1812, ch. 135, sec. 3, . . . . .	611
State bonds to be taken therein, but if omitted, the obligors not discharged—1812, ch. 135, sec. 4, . . . . .	611

CURSING, SWEARING AND DRUNKENNESS.

Penalty on persons profanely swearing or cursing in the hearing of a magistrate, minister, or other officers therein mentioned—1723, ch. 16, sec. 2, . . . . .	68
On persons drunk in presence of such magistrates, &c.—1723, ch. 16, sec. 3, . . . . .	66
If the fines are not immediately paid, the offender, (not being a freeholder, or other reputable person,) may be whipped, or put in the stocks—1723, ch. 16, sec. 4, . . . . .	66
Penalty on persons, (not legally exempted,) refusing when ordered to inflict such punishment—1723, ch. 16, sec. 4, . . . . .	66
Manner of levying the fines from freeholders—1723, ch. 16, sec. 4, . . . . .	66
Penalty on magistrates being themselves guilty of cursing, &c. or omitting to punish others—1723, ch. 16, sec. 6, . . . . .	67
Offenders reviling any magistrate, &c. in the execution of this act, shall give security, (£5,) for good behaviour for three months, or be imprisoned one month without bail—1723, ch. 16, sec. 7, . . . . .	67
Magistrates, &c. assaulted in the execution of this act, and bringing their actions, to recover treble damages—1723, ch. 16, sec. 8, . . . . .	67
Persons sued for any thing done in the execution of this act may plead the general issue, &c. and on non-suit of the plaintiff shall have treble costs—1723, ch. 16, sec. 9, . . . . .	67
Prosecutions, &c. for the said offences to be made within ten days after the fact—1723, ch. 16, sec. 13, . . . . .	68

CURTESY.

Claim or title by tenant by the curtesy, forfeited on conviction of bigamy—1809, ch. 138, sec. 7, . . . . .	580
Tenants by the curtesy entitled for life to lands held by equitable title—1818, ch. 193, sec. 10, . . . . .	701
Exceptions as to liens—1818, ch. 193, sec. 10, . . . . .	701

DAMAGES.

The verdict and damages being for a greater sum than the amount in the declaration, not a ground for a reversal, but to be released—1811, ch. 161, sec. 3, . . . . .	605
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

DECLARATION.

One good count sufficient to prevent stay or reversal—1809, ch. 153, sec. 2, . . . . .	589
The verdict and judgment being for a greater sum than that laid in the declaration not a sufficient ground for reversal—1811, ch. 161, sec. 3, . . . . .	605

Deaf & Dumb. see page 2617