CHAPTER 188.

AN additional SUPPLEMENT to an ACT, entitled, an Act to regulate the Inspection of Tobacco.

See notes to 1801, ch. 63, ante page 437.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the seed of a kind of tobacco, called Varinas Tobacco, has been imported with considerable difficulty from South America, which it is desirable to introduce into cultivation in this state; and it is represented, that to give it a fair chance of competition in a foreign market with tobacco of the same kind exported from South America, it will be necessary, instead of packing it in the usual way, to make it up into rolls and petaccas, which cannot be inspected in the manner prescribed by the present inspection laws; and sufficient information respecting the nature of said tobacco is not possessed to ascertain and determine what sort of inspection it would be susceptible of and require, which information can only be obtained by experience: And whereas this general assembly is at all all times desirous of fostering and promoting the interests of agriculture, and for that purpose of encouraging the introduction of new and valuable varieties of one of our great staples; therefore,
