CHAP. 36. An act for the better preventing thefts and robberies, and for regulating places of public entertainment, and punishing persons keeping disorderly houses.

CHAP. 37. An act for better preventing the horrid crime of murder.

CHAP. 36. Upon an examination of the several provisions of this statute, it will be seen that it was not applicable to the circumstances of the people in the province.

CHAP. 37. See as to this statute, 4 Bl. Com. 202—but from a view of the proceedings in the provincial court, there is reason to believe that it did not extend to the province, although there were a few cases in which the day was fixed by the court.
