CHAP. 16. It would seem that this statute was not used and practised under in the province, from the number of acts of assembly which have passed on the subject. See the acts now in force 1715, Ch. 47, Sec. 8, (the expressions in which are nearly similar to those used in this statute) and the several supplementary acts. See also in the Land Holders Assistant, (app. xxxv.) the act of 1671, for quieting possessions, which recites that in the beginning of this plantation, and till of late years, there never was any settled course of conveying lands, &c. and the act of 1694, which contained in the 2d Section, provisions similar to those in the act of 1715.

There was also an act to the same effect in 1692, Ch. 30, which is referred to in the act of 1715, and among the 36 acts read in 1638, there was one for enrolling of grants.
