

transmitted to the commander in chief for his approval or disapproval.

715. If any non-commissioned officer, private or musician shall, at the time of parading the company as herein directed or in the by-laws of the company to which he belongs, appear drunk, or disobey orders or use any reproachful, insulting or abusive language to his officers, or any of them, or shall quarrel himself or promote any quarrel among his fellow soldiers, or interrupt them in the discharge of their duty, he may be disarmed and put under guard by order of the commanding officer until the company is dismissed, and shall be fined a sum not exceeding twenty dollars, in the discretion of such court martial as the case may require.

716. If on field days and when the division or regiment is paraded, any non-commissioned officer, private or musician shall use any reproachful or insulting language to the commanding officer, or any other officer on duty, or oppose his or their orders or promote any opposition to such orders among his fellow soldiers, he shall be disarmed and put under guard during such parade by such officer, and shall be tried by a court martial chosen by the commanding officer, consisting of three commissioned officers attached to the regiment to which such offender belongs, and fined a sum not exceeding fifty dollars, at the discretion of said court.

717. If any bystander shall interrupt, molest, or insult any officer or soldier when on duty at any time when required by this law or by the laws of any company, the commanding officer at the time of such offence may cause the offender to be confined for ten days, and he shall also be fined a sum not exceeding fifty dollars, in the discretion of the court martial to be appointed by the officer, to consist of three members, one of whom at least shall be a commissioned officer, which court shall proceed on the trial in the same manner as other courts martial; and if the like misconduct shall take place before any court martial, or other court established under the provisions of this law, towards any officer, soldier or other person required to attend such court, or towards such court or a member thereof, the said court may order such offender to be confined for the day, and may fine him not exceeding fifty dollars; and the returns thereof for collection shall be made as the returns of other fines imposed by such courts.