

12. They shall pay said overseer a sum not exceeding two hundred dollars per annum as a salary, and so pro rata during his continuance in office.

13. They shall provide suitable farming stock and implements of husbandry, and cause all paupers who may be maintained in the alms-house to perform such labor on the land belonging thereto as may be consistent with their health and the public interest.

14. They shall provide suitable and necessary implements of labor and materials therefor so as to provide for the employment of the inmates of said alms-house not engaged in the cultivation of the farm, but who may be capable of doing effective in-door labor.

15. The overseer shall keep a regular list of all poor and all beggars, vagrants, vagabonds and offenders who shall be committed to the said alms-house, and also regular accounts of all materials and other things coming to his hands as overseer, and of all expenses and charges attending the maintenance and support of the inmates of the alms-house, and of all moneys received by him for the sale of the produce of their labor, and shall render the same, under oath to be administered by one of said trustees, to the trustees at their regular meetings, or oftener if required.

16. He may compel and oblige any of the inmates of the said alms-house, if of sufficient ability, to work and labor, and shall account for the produce of their labor.

17. Upon complaint made that any person from his disorderly conduct gives disturbance to a neighborhood and is likely to become chargeable to the county, any justice of the peace, if upon hearing the party he shall judge the complaint to be well founded, may commit such disorderly person to the alms-house for any time not exceeding three months, unless he shall find security, at the discretion of the justice, in any sum not exceeding fifty dollars, for his good behavior during the space of six months.

18. Upon complaint and due proof made by the overseer of the said alms-house to any one trustee that any inmate of the said alms-house hath behaved himself in a disorderly manner, or hath
