157. No teacher shall receive any extra compensation for teaching Latin, Greek, or any other classical or foreign language, upon pain of dismissal.

158. Whenever the taxable inhabitants or patrons of any school district shall neglect to elect local trustees on the first Saturday in May, the general board of trustees for primary schools shall appoint three taxable inhabitants of said school district to act as local trustees until their successors are elected, but any three taxable inhabitants of such district may, at any time, give public notice, in writing, to be set up at two or more public places in the district, of an election of trustees in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, and such election, when made, shall be as valid as if made on the first Saturday in May, and the local trustees when so appointed or elected shall remain in office until their successors are elected by the taxable inhabitants and patrons of the several school districts, and the local trustees so elected shall always supersede those appointed by the general trustees.

159. All vacancies among the local trustees shall be filled by the taxable inhabitants and patrons, or, if they neglect, by the general trustees.

160. Each teacher shall keep a regular account of the attendance of the scholars under his charge, and make report thereof to the local trustees quarterly, or oftener if they require it.

161. Each member of the general board of trustees shall be entitled to a per diem allowance of two dollars for every day he shall attend the meetings of said board, to be paid out of the school fund of the county.

162. The several boards of local trustees shall report, at least once a year, to the general board of trustees, the manner in which the several schools have been conducted, the number of scholars attending the same, and the punctuality and competency with which the teachers have discharged their duties.

163. The schools and school houses shall in all respects be free schools for the education of all the children of the citizens of
