

110. They shall draw all orders on the commissioners for the payment of teachers, and may suspend or dismiss a teacher for immoral conduct or any other cause, when in their judgment the interests of the school may require it.

111. They may suspend or dismiss a pupil for immorality, for continued insubordination or other improper conduct; and they shall admit no child in any of the public schools, under the age of five or over the age of seventeen years, unless in such cases as in their judgment this rule should be dispensed with.

112. They shall oblige the teacher in each school to keep a register of the names and ages of all pupils attending the same, and they shall, on or before the first day of December of each year, furnish the president of the board of school commissioners with a statement of the number of pupils, male and female, that have attended the schools in their respective districts, during the year ending on the last of November.

113. They shall levy on each parent or guardian of their respective districts, one dollar and fifty cents per quarter for each child or ward he may have attending said schools, and the amount so levied may be abated one-fourth by the parent's showing from the assessment books of the county, that he is not assessed at three thousand dollars; and three-fourths, if not assessed at one thousand dollars; and all guardians shall claim and have for their wards the abatement allowed to parents; but this section shall not be so construed as to deny the benefits of such school to the children of such parents as are not assessed.

114. In default of payment of the sum hereby authorized to be levied, the said trustees shall have power to sue for and recover the same, in the same manner as small debts are recoverable, and shall apply the same towards paying the current expenses of the school under their direction.

115. They shall cause at least one public examination of the pupils in their respective schools, to be held in each year, and shall give public notice of such examination, and written notice of the same to each parent or guardian who may have a child or ward attending such school.

116. The board of school commissioners shall constitute a board of examiners, whose duty it shall be to examine all per-
