

uses aforesaid; and if said slave shall act by the order of his owner or employer, he shall not be subject to such whipping, but the owner or employer giving such order shall be subject to the penalty of ten dollars, to be recovered as aforesaid.

105. Every justice of the peace shall annually account with the county commissioners of the county, at their meeting to make the county levy, for all fines received under this law, under the penalty of twenty dollars for each fine by him imposed or received.

FOXES.

106. Every person who is an actual resident of Washington county, shall be entitled to an allowance from said county, not to exceed one dollar, for every fox destroyed or killed by him within the limits thereof.

107. It shall be necessary for the person killing or destroying any fox, to produce the head and tail of the same before some justice of the peace in and for said county, and make oath that the said fox was taken, wounded or killed within the limits of said county, within six days then next preceding.

108. The said justice shall thereupon give to said person a certificate setting forth the said oath, and shall at the same time cut off the ears and tail, and cut out the tongue from the head, so as to prevent any second allowance therefor; and the county commissioners of said county shall levy for the use of the person producing such certificate the sum to which he shall thereby appear to be entitled under the provisions of section 106 of this article.

HAGERSTOWN.

109. The inhabitants of Hagerstown, in Washington county, are a body corporate, by the name of "The Mayor and Council of Hagerstown," and by that name may sue and be sued, and have and use a common seal.

110. The bounds of said town shall be as laid down and described on a plot of Hagerstown, recorded in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court for Washington county.

111. The free white male citizens of Hagerstown, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, who have resided in the State
