

a two-year professional course for the training of teachers. In that year the course was lengthened to three years, and in 1934 it was extended to four years. In addition to the four-year curriculum leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education, the College also offers a two-year junior college program. Those pursuing the full four-year program pay no tuition if they promise to teach in the public schools of Maryland for two years following their graduation. The College enrollment for 1954-55 was 337.

The State Teachers College at Towson was established as the Maryland State Normal School by the General Assembly of 1865. The school was originally located in Baltimore and was moved to Towson in 1915. In 1932 the normal school became a four-year teachers' college. The curriculum includes courses in both junior high school and elementary teaching leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education. The school also offers a two-year junior college course. Students enrolling in the four-year curriculum for prospective teachers pay no tuition if they promise to teach in the public schools of Maryland following their graduation. The enrollment of the College for the school year 1954-55 was 1,050.
