MARYLAND HOUSE OF CORRECTION

William F. Steiner, Warden

Jessups (Anne Arundel County)

Telephone: Elkridge 157

The Maryland House of Correction, established in 1878, is a medium security penal institution for male offenders who are convicted of crime and sentenced to imprisonment for three months or more. It operates a farm and maintains a herd of dairy cattle that supplies dairy products to the House of Correction, the Penitentiary, Patuxent Institution, and the Reformatory for Women. The following State Use Industries shops operate here: concrete and cinder block, soap and paint, woodworking, tobacco, clothing, and canning. Other inmates are employed under the Public Works program. Three road camps operate out of this institution. There is also a school. The House of Correction is located on a farm of 1,195 acres. The average population for the fiscal year 1958 was 2,202 (Code 1957, Art. 27, secs. 671-72).

MARYLAND STATE REFORMATORY FOR MALES

Clement J. Ferling, Superintendent

Route 3, Hagerstown (Washington County)

Telephone: Regent 3-2800 (Hagerstown)

The Maryland State Reformatory for Males was established in 1945 at the penal institution originally established as the State Penal Farm in 1931. The Reformatory is a minimum security institution.

The Courts commit male offenders from 16 to 25 to the Reformatory for indeterminate sentences. Although the Reformatory is primarily for youthful offenders, the Board of Correction may transfer to it prisoners of any age from the House of Correction or the Penitentiary. The Board may also transfer incorrigible and unmanageable inmates of the Reformatory to other institutions.

The Reformatory gives regular instruction in basic education as well as in the vocational and industrial arts. A psychologist aids in classifying and examining inmates. Located on a 1,119-acre farm, the Reformatory maintains a dairy cattle herd which supplies dairy products to this and other State institutions. A cannery, metal shop, brush shop, sewing shop, and bookbindery also operate as State Use Industries.
