

ated it until the State assumed control by Chapter 296, Acts of 1951. The school became a separate institution in 1909 and received its present name in honor of Fannie Jackson Coppin, a former slave who had purchased her freedom and became the first Negro woman in the United States to receive a college degree. By Chapter 41, Acts of 1963, the college was changed from a teachers college to a State college with the authority to institute liberal arts programs. The college provides a four-year curriculum for training teachers in several fields—elementary, secondary (with major in English, biology, history, chemistry, general science or social studies) and Special Education (teaching mentally retarded or children with speech and hearing difficulties). There is also a liberal arts program with majors in English, history, social science, chemistry, biology, and general science. Both Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees are granted, together with the Master's degree in Special Education. The enrollment of the college for the 1968-69 year was 660 including the evening school.
