Department of Public Welfare. It was transferred to the Juvenile Services Administration on July 1, 1967. The Victor Cullen School was transferred from the jurisdiction of the Department of Juvenile Services to the Mental Retardation Administration and redesignated as the Victor Cullen Center in January, 1974.

The Center is oriented toward a non-medical model of education, training and habilitation for all of its severely and profoundly retarded residents. The long-range goal for residents is to prepare them to return to the community within a five year period. Individualized programs are prepared to implement this long-range goal and residents use the generic services provided by doctors, dentists, speech therapists, occupational therapists, physical therapists, and pharmaceutical services in the local community. More than half of the residents attend day training in the community. The Center is budgeted for 90 residents.
