

grieved by a decision of any administrative appeal including the central repository and the criminal justice agency may seek judicial review in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act and the Maryland Rules.

Some portions of the legislation became effective July 1, 1976. These included the portions dealing with the creation of the Advisory Board; the rule-making authority of the Secretary of the Department of Public Safety, the Court of Appeals, and the Chief Judge; and the right of individual inspection, challenge, and appeal (when the right of inspection or challenge is denied).

The remaining portions of the legislation do not become effective until December 31, 1977. These include mandatory reporting requirements of criminal justice agencies to the Central Repository; limits on dissemination; security requirements; and auditing and quality control requirements (Code 1957, 1971 Repl. Vol., 1976 Supp., Art. 27, secs. 742-755).

The Delmarva Advisory Council, originally called the Delmarva Steering Committee, was recommended at the Delmarva Development meeting held in Salisbury on December 3, 1963. The meeting was attended by the Governors and representatives of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia. As a result of this meeting, the Council was established in 1964 to advance the economic and cultural welfare of the people of the Delmarva Peninsula through advice, counsel and assistance to such government agencies and private organizations as are concerned with programs and activities to develop the resources and economic activities of the area. At a second Governors' Conference held on May 11, 1967, the Delmarva Peninsula was designated by the U. S. Department of Commerce, the Economic Development Administration, the Delmarva Economic Development District under the terms of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. The Delmarva Advisory Council is the organization designated by the three governors to advise and work with the local organizations in carrying out projects of the overall economic development program. The Council consists of forty-seven members from the three States and several advisory members. Council members serve for varied terms.
