

As a member of a special legislative task force, Mr. Steinberg assisted in drafting the Dangerous Substance Control Act which placed Maryland at the forefront of efforts to control dangerous drugs. Under his leadership, major legislation was enacted which rekindled the vitality of the racing industry in Maryland. With a tradition stemming from Colonial days, racing in our State has the third largest impact of any industry on our economy.

Mr. Steinberg introduced legislation which became the basis of condominium law in the State of Maryland. He sponsored legislation establishing election of county council members in Baltimore County by district rather than at-large. Mr. Steinberg also sponsored numerous bills concerning mental health and domestic relations law.

As a member of the Maryland State Senate, Mr. Steinberg was also very active in the area of economic development. In the fall of 1984, he represented Maryland and the General Assembly on an economic development mission to Japan. In the spring of 1985, Mr. Steinberg, as President of the Senate, represented the State in London when the Pride of Baltimore sailed under the Tower Bridge to complete its first Atlantic crossing.

Mr. Steinberg has also been active in the field of higher education, having served on the Commission on Excellence in Higher Education which made recommendations on the restructuring of the higher education system in Maryland.

Since his election as Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Steinberg has continued to build on a solid record of achievement gained during his twenty years of service in the Maryland General Assembly.

On behalf of Governor William Donald Schaefer, Lieutenant Governor Steinberg is responsible for the coordination and development of the Administration's legislative agenda. Governor Schaefer also relies upon the Lieutenant Governor to guide execution of Administration policy in the areas of financial regulation, labor issues, and economic development. As Chairman of the State Trade Policy Council, the Lieutenant Governor is specifically responsible for increasing export opportunities for Maryland companies.

Lieutenant Governor Steinberg was born in Baltimore City on October 4, 1933, and attended Baltimore City public schools. He is a graduate of Baltimore City College and received his Associate of Arts Degree from the University of Baltimore in 1952. In 1955, he received a Juris Doctorate Degree from the University of Baltimore School of Law and was admitted to the Maryland Bar the same year. He served on active duty in the United States Navy from November 1955 through 1957.

Mr. Steinberg returned to Baltimore following military service and became active in a number of civic organizations and political clubs. He entered the private practice of law as an associate with his cousin, Marvin B. Steinberg, Esquire, now a Judge of the Circuit Court of Baltimore City. Subsequently, the Lieutenant Governor became a partner in the law firm of Levin, Gann, & Hankin, P.A. Mr. Steinberg is a member of the Baltimore County, Maryland State and American Bar Associations.

Lieutenant Governor Steinberg and his wife, Anita, have been married for twenty-nine years. The Steinbergs have three children, Edward, Susan, and Barbara. Edward, a graduate of Bucknell University and the University of Baltimore School of Law, is currently practicing law in Baltimore City. Edward's wife, Halaine, is a graduate of Towson University and is a public school teacher. Susan is a graduate of Drew University and is currently a third-year student at the University of Maryland School of Law. Barbara is a 1985 graduate of Dickinson College and presently is an accounting student at the University of Baltimore. The Steinbergs reside in Baltimore County.