The Long Term Care Division directs the planning, implementation, and evaluation of long term care services for the elderly managed by the Office on Aging in collaboration with other State departments and agencies. The Division develops policies and initiatives for promoting statewide long term care activities aimed at reducing the institutionalization of the frail elderly. The division provides staff support to the Interagency Committee on Aging Services. The Division also directs the Ombudsman, Public Guardianship, and Life Support programs, in addition to Gateway II. Gateway II is a system operated at the local level to provide screening, assessment, and case management services to frail elderly persons.

The Housing and Continuing Care Division develops, certifies, and assists in the operation of subsidized sheltered housing for the elderly. Such housing provides a residential environment with assistance as needed for activities of daily living. The Division also regulates and certifies continuing care facilities operated by the private sector to provide long-term shelter and care to elderly persons. Information disclosed through the registration process is open to public inspection as a consumer protection to prospective residents.

The Planning and Evaluation Division is responsible for program planning and development, establishment of program priorities, and assessment of program results. It directs and manages legislative, research, health insurance, and other Office activities that benefit consumers.
