By Departmental reorganization in 1987, the Drug Abuse Administration and the Alcoholism Control Administration were merged to form the Addictions Services Administration. The Addictions Services Administration was renamed as the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Administration in 1988 (Chapter 758, Acts of 1988).

Alcoholism Control. The Administration serves as a clearinghouse for information on alcoholism. It develops and promotes State, regional, and local plans and programs. For local governments, the Administration provides technical assistance and consultation on alcoholism prevention and the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

To prevent and treat alcoholism, the Administration seeks assistance from public and voluntary health, education, welfare, and rehabilitation agencies. The Administration encourages alcoholism rehabilitation programs in businesses and industries in the State (Code Health—General Article, Title 8).

The Administration publishes the Maryland Alcoholism Resource Directory which lists alcoholism
