The Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services was created in 1970 (Chapter 401, Acts of 1970). Its origins, however, date to the early nineteenth century when the State first assumed responsibilities for corrections. Then, the Maryland Penitentiary opened in 1811 (Resolution no. 32, Acts of 1804). The Maryland House of Correction was authorized in 1874 and opened in 1879 (Chapter 233, Acts of 1874).
