TOWSON STATE UNIVERSITY

Hoke L. Smith, Ph.D., President

Towsontown Blvd. and York Road
Towson, MD 21204 321-2356
TTY for Deaf: 321-2638

Towson State University originated in 1865 as the State Normal School (Chapter 160, Acts of 1865). Opened in Baltimore City in 1866, the School was the first and, at that time, only institution devoted exclusively to the preparation of teachers for the public schools of Maryland. The School occupied four different sites in Baltimore City before moving to its present suburban location in 1915. The Bachelor of Science degree in education was established in 1935 when the school was renamed the Maryland State Teachers College at Towson (Chapter 554, Acts of 1935). In 1946, an arts and sciences program was introduced. The College increased its offerings in the arts and sciences and became Towson State College in 1963. Two years later, it began expanding its graduate program. The College was designated as Towson State University in 1976.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND EASTERN SHORE

William P. Hytche, Ed.D., President

Princess Anne, MD 21853 651-2200

The Eastern Shore Campus (UMES) at Princess Anne had diverse affiliations and several names before becoming the University of Maryland Eastern Shore in 1970. The institution was founded in 1886 as the Delaware Conference Academy for Negroes, under the general control of what became known as Morgan College, then a private institution in Baltimore. By the Morrill Act of 1890, the Academy received federal funds and was renamed the Princess Anne Academy. This funding created a relationship with the then Maryland Agricultural College, although the campus continued to be a part of Morgan College. College level work began at Princess Anne in 1927. The State authorized purchase of the Academy in 1935 (Chapter 548, Acts of 1935) and, in 1936, Princess Anne Academy became part of the University of Maryland, bearing the name of Maryland State College from 1948 until 1970.

The Eastern Shore Campus (UMES) offers curricula in the arts and sciences, business, agriculture, and other areas; preprofessional training; extension education; and marine, estuarine, and environmental sciences. Research and public service centers at UMES include the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, Institute for Eastern Shore Studies, and the Soybean Research Institute.

FROSTBURG STATE UNIVERSITY

Herb. F. Reinhard, Ed.D., President

Midlothian Road and Center St.
Frostburg, MD 21532 689-4111

Frostburg State University was founded in 1898 as Maryland Normal School No. 2 and first opened in 1902. The school was renamed Frostburg State Teachers' College in 1935 and Frostburg State College in 1963. On July 7, 1987, the college became Frostburg State University.

Accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools, Frostburg serves as a regional State university for Western Maryland. The University, with an enrollment of over 4,500 students, offers comprehensive undergraduate and graduate programs of study.

In August 1988, the University opened a Center at Hagerstown offering upper-division coursework leading to the baccalaureate degree in accounting, business administration and sociology (criminal justice focus) and the master of science degree in management.

Serving the academic, economic and cultural needs of Western Maryland, the University in recent years has been a key participant in world class whitewater competitions, Cumberland Summer Theatre, and international academic conferences.
