alcohol education, and counseling; clinical intervention; case management; residential treatment and long-term continuing care; intensive outpatient and day treatment; and family therapy. Adolescent clients are referred by local schools, or social services and juvenile services agencies for treatment.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE DIVISION
C. Wayne Kempske, Chief
(410) 225-6901

The Criminal Justice Division was formed in 1987 under the former Addictions Services Administration. The Division coordinates all evaluations of criminal defendents for drug and alcohol abuse, and all commitments for evaluation or treatment made by Circuit Courts and District Courts (Code Health—General Article, secs. 8-505 through 8-507). The Division also coordinates all education and treatment for those driving while intoxicated (DWI). The Division coordinates its work with the Division of Parole and Probation, the Division of Correction, the Administrative Office of the Courts, the Motor Vehicle Administration, and local health departments.

OFFICE OF EDUCATION & TRAINING
Ludwig L. Lankford, Director
(410) 225-6933

Created in 1976, the Office of Education and Training educates and trains public and private providers of treatment and prevention programs for addicts. The Office also helps devise curriculum and evaluates college and university courses on the treatment and prevention of addiction.

GRANTS MANAGEMENT DIVISION
Margaret McIntyre, Chief
(410) 225-6872

The Grants Management Division awards and monitors Administration monies for addictions treatment and prevention. Grants are received by local health departments, government agencies and private companies. As the Administration's fiscal agent, the Division cooperates closely with the Department's Division of Contracts and Division of Program Cost and Analysis.

MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SERVICES DIVISION
William Rusinko, Chief
(410) 225-6886

The Management Information Services Division develops and maintains agency data systems; reports and analyzes trends and patterns in alcohol and drug abuse, and assessment of treatment programs; and assists other Divisions with data, research, and computerized information systems. All certified providers of public and private treatment and DWI assessors must report to the Division.

PLANNING & POLICY DEVELOPMENT DIVISION
Sharon Dow, Chief
(410) 225-6550

The Planning and Policy Development Division develops Administration policies and rules and regulations governing alcohol and drug abuse treatment. The Division provides technical assistance to all methadone programs, oversees their compliance with State and federal regulations, and monitors private methadone programs. The Division also monitors treatment of pregnant addicts and compiles quarterly statistics on their admissions, retentions, and deliveries. In addition, the Division serves as liaison to the Federal Center for Substance Abuse Treatment.

PREVENTION DIVISION
Eugenia Conolly, Chief
(410) 225-6543

The Prevention Division funds, develops, implements, and monitors prevention strategies. The Division works in collaboration with the Governor's Commission on Drug and Alcohol Abuse; the Office for Children, Youth, and Families; the State Department of Education; the Department of Human Resources; and the Department of Transportation.

REGIONAL FIELD SERVICES DIVISION
Lilyan Berdit, Chief
(410) 225-6910

To coordinate addiction treatment services, the Regional Field Services Division serves as liaison between local and State government agencies.

SPECIAL POPULATIONS DIVISION
William B. Lowry, Chief
(410) 225-6550

The Special Populations Division develops programs to serve "special populations," including minorities, and individuals with disabilities, particularly the deaf and hearing-impaired, and persons with HIV disease.

SOCIAL SECURITY INCOME DRUG & ALCOHOL PROJECT
Herdisene McIntyre-Green, Coordinator
(410) 225-6871

Federally funded, the Social Security Income Drug and Alcohol Project certifies that Social Security recipients comply with federal eligibility standards. These require that all Social Security recipients with