Baltimore City. Locally, Extension Service agents work to improve agricultural profitability, promote economic stability, foster marine and aquaculture industries, and expand urban benefits of agricultural technology. Faculty are supported by State program specialists at the University of Maryland College Park, the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, the Center for Environmental and Estuarine Studies, and four off-campus centers.

The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service was established by federal and State laws in 1914 (Chapter 247, Acts of 1914). It is supported by federal, State and county funds.

In 1990, the Service was placed under the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources. Since 1993, the Service has been overseen by the College of Agriculture at the University of Maryland College Park.

The Service informs and educates Marylanders about agricultural matters and brings to the attention of scientists the needs and problems of people for further research. As the statewide, out-of-the-classroom component of the University of Maryland System, the Service is based in every county and in
