

127. They may impose a fine of one dollar, on Impose fine. any person who may wilfully discharge a gun or other fire arms in said town, on any day excepting days when the militia may be mustered or paraded therein; and the like sum upon all persons who may suffer their chimneys, or any of them, to flame out for want of cleaning; and on any person who may ride or drive a horse at an immoderate speed through said town; and also impose a reasonable fine on persons for permitting their geese or swine to run at large in said town.

128. All the property in said town, taxed for county Taxes. and State purposes, shall be liable to be taxed for the purposes of and by said corporation; and the Mayor and Council may annually levy upon said property, at the same time that other taxes are levied, a reasonable sum to assist in keeping the engines and hose of the fire companies of said town in proper order.

129. They may provide by ordinance for arresting Arresting and punish'g. and punishing all vagrant, loose, and disorderly persons, lewd women, keepers of bawdy houses, and common disturbers of the neighborhood, that may be found in said town, commit the offenders to the jail of the county for a term not exceeding twenty days, or impose a fine not exceeding twenty dollars.

130. They may levy and collect such tax as they Levy and collect tax. may think proper, upon all players and showmen exhibiting in said town, and for a refusal to pay the same, or exhibit or perform in violation of this section, may impose a fine equal to the tax laid, and imprison the offender.

131. They may regulate by ordinance the market Regulate market. in said town, appoint an inspector of said market, assign his duties and allow him a salary, and have control and rent the butchers' stalls in the market-house.

132. They may annually levy upon the taxable Annually levy upon. property of said town such sums as they may consider necessary to meet the wants of said town, not exceeding thirty-five cents on the one hundred