2. AND BE IT ENACTED, That an act, entitled, An act to prevent the exportation of flour not merchantable, and unsound salted provisions, from the port of Havre-de-Grace, passed at November session, seventeen hundred and ninety-six, (h), <sup>(h) Ch. 21.</sup> be and the same is hereby enacted into a permanent law; that another act, entitled, An act to prevent the exportation of bread and flour not merchantable, and for other purposes, passed at November session, seventeen hundred and eighty-one, (i), so far as the same relates to Havre-de-Grace, be and it is hereby revived and enacted into a permanent law.

(i) Chapter 12. As this act had expired and was not printed in the former edition of the laws, it is here inserted at length, viz:

An Act to prevent the Exportation of Bread and Flour not Merchantable, and for other purposes.

By 1796, ch. 21, s. 5, all and singular the sections, &c. which are contained in this act, are extended to the port of Havre-de-Grace, and to the regulation of the inspection of flour within said port, in as full and ample manner as if the same had been herein particularly specified and mentioned.

WHEREAS the regulations hitherto made for the inspection of flour require alteration, and there not being any regulations for the prevention of frauds in the export of bread: therefore,
